

The Top Five Lakeside Resorts in the United States

January 9, 2017

By Nat Berman

There are few things more relaxing than having a getaway where you can rest peacefully, enjoy the outdoors, and stroll along a sparkling lake. This is the experience offered by lakeside resorts, and though there are a number of famous ones abroad the United States has a wonderful selection of its own. Not only do these properties have beautiful views, they're incredibly luxurious and offer a host of superb amenities. Here are five of the top lakeside resorts in the U.S.

Big Cedar Lodge, Ridgedale, Missouri

<http://www.bigcedar.com>

Many adore Big Cedar Lodge because of its fantastic scenery, but it's also a one of the best lakeside resorts for fishing. It's located on Table Rock Lake, which hosts 43,000 acres that are prime for catching bass. All around Big Cedar Lodge you can see the majestic Ozarks and the water is perfect for enjoying sports such as canoeing, wakeboarding, kneeboarding, and kayaking. Guests can also take an excursion on a sunset cruise or play at an exclusive world class golf course.

On-site you'll find a gorgeous full service spa, fully equipped gym with personal trainers available, indoor and outdoor pools, and a lazy river. The dining options at Big Cedar Lodge include a cozy cafe and chic restaurant with lake views. Accommodation options feature rustic decor, spa tubs, mini fridges, fireplaces, and free Wi-Fi. Guests can choose from private cabins, a spacious villa, lodge rooms, or a cottage.

Starting rate per night: $172